

THE HEARING IS OVER!

Radnet workers organizing with NUHW were represented well at the National Labor Relations Board hearing in our effort to secure our union election.

However, Radnet is still trying to divide us. They argued that MRI techs, nuclear med techs, and pet techs are security guards and should not be eligible to vote.

Radnet also argued that each center should have its own election, and that despite how much we float, a full Orange County regional unit is not appropriate.

We made our case and our coworkers present all testified, showing courage and determination.

The NLRB will make a ruling in the coming weeks on the details of our union election. Organizing our union will help us secure fair wages, job security, a voice on the job, and respect for our profession.
